

Robin

The robin is a familiar bird found in parks, gardens and woodland. It is often the first bird to be heard in the morning and the last one to be heard in the evening, singing from a high perch.

Young robins have no red-orange chest and are speckly brown. They gradually change colour, like the juvenile robin shown below.

