

Too good to be true? Yes!

It could be a criminal offering you stolen money.

If you receive this money into your bank account and transfer it to someone else, you will become a money mule. This is a crime.

Protect yourself and your family.
If someone contacts you on social media, online or in person and offers you quick cash – say NO.

NEVER accept money from a stranger, even if your friends do

NEVER share your bank details with anyone you don't know and trust

Don't Be Fooled by offers of quick cash.

If you are tricked into becoming a money mule:

	You could be putting yourself and your family at risk
	You could find it difficult to get a job when you leave school
	Your bank account will be closed
	You will have difficulty getting mobile phone contracts
	You will find it difficult to get a student loan for college or university
	It is a crime

To find out more information visit dontbefeooled.org.uk. If you are worried that someone has approached you offering quick and easy money, speak to a teacher or you can call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.